Bes L. Lusk Dies Suddenly On Friday Night

Well Known Business Man Stricken On Friday Afternoon

SERVED MANY YEARS IN CITY COUNCIL

Born In City; And Long Interested In Many Local Activities

BES L. LUSK

Sobieski (Bes) L. Lusk, 69, 306 Moody avenue, member of a pioneer family of the district, long prominent in the civic and business life of this city, where he was born, died Friday, May 8, 1931, at nine p. m. in Jameson Memorial hospital, following a sudden and unexpected attack of heart trouble which he suffered in the early afternoon while in the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company bank on business.

Death Is Shock

His illness and death were so entirely unexpected that the entire community, in which he was widely known and held in high esteem by those who knew him, was shocked to learn that he had passed away. It was between two and 2:30 o'clock, while in the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company banking rooms, that Mr. Lusk was suddenly taken ill. His condition was such that he was given a chair on which to try and recover what appeared only a temporary illness. He became worse, however, and was removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital in an ambulance.

PA NEW OBSERVES

The heavy rain of Thursday evening must have been quite general over this section of the country. The Shenango river continued to rise today as a result of the downpour up the valley, reaching a height of 9.4 feet.

Pa New observed a group of old timers, surrounding an old time picture of the covered bridge which used to stand over the Shenango near the Carnegie Steel plant, and which was familiarly known as the Black bridge. They were picking out old landmarks which used to exist in those days, when New Castle was still only a village.

The dirt and debris washed down town from the hills by Thursday night's rain was being removed by city street department men today.

East New Castle residents are complaining that caddies at the Municipal Golf course, do a lot of unnecessary yelling along the highway during the early morning hours. They do not relish the idea of being awakened from the best part of their slumbers, and are planning to take action if it continues.

New Castle municipal golf course has not been closed on account of the recent storm, as seems to have been the impression in some sources. (Continued On Page Two)

Distribute Prizes To Biggest Hospital Babies

Winners of the awards for the biggest baby boy and baby girl born at the Jameson Memorial hospital during 1930 have been certified by Dr. Wayne W. Bissell, medical director of the hospital. Each will receive $25.

The winners were Anthony William Latina, born October 29, 1930 at 5:45 a. m. to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Latina of 811 West Locust street, weight 12 pounds; and Glenna Jean Buchanan, born May 27, 1930 at 11 a. m. to Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Buchanan of 1236 Randolph street. Glenna Jean weighed ten pounds and six ounces.

The prizes in this unique contest were offered by Fred L. Rentz, who was then president of the Jameson Memorial hospital board, and T. C. Post, who was vice president. Mr. Post is now president of the board of directors, having succeeded Mr. Rentz to that position at the annual election of the board.

These prizes are now available at the office of Mr. Rentz, president of The News, and can be procured by the parents at any time.

Yesterday, the little winners of the award were visited by a representative of The News to see how they were getting along, and in both instances, it was found that they are just recovering from illnesses.

Little Anthony William Latina has been quite sick with stomach trouble and beaded ears, while little Glenna Jean has been suffering with a childish ailment.

They are both as big now in relation to their age, as they were at birth. Mrs. Latina was quite proud of Anthony William. She did not know just how much he does weigh now, but she explained.

Little Glenna Jean is a cute little red-haired youngster. Her mother did not know just exactly how much she weighs now, either, but she is quite a good-sized little lady and except for her recent illness, has been in good health.

Federal Men Leave To Report On Sites In City

Number Of Those Offered Are Suitable But Price Too High

EAGER TO START WORK ON PROJECT

Expect Revised Bids For Sites To Be Submitted At Once

Site recommendations for New Castle's new post office building, determined by Site Agent L. H. Blanton, U. S. Treasury department representative, and M. V. Brown, lease supervisor of the U. S. Post Office department, in their three-day inspection and survey here will probably be filed in Washington, D. C., within the next few weeks.

Agent Blanton and Mr. Brown left late Friday after completing a thorough investigation of properties offered for the federal structures here. They announced that while the sites were numerous and desirable, the prices asked so far still remain too high.

Six Sites Best

Both government men expressed the hope that land owners here will consider their bid prices and adjust them so as to make more reasonable the selling figure. They made known that at least five or six tracts, in their opinions are "competing sites."

A general intimation of properties favored by the inspectors and conference was given as follows:

Those seemed located in the most advantageous centers were the tracts of land both on the east and west side of North Jefferson street; those along North Mercer street bounded on one corner by North street; those in the East street district below Falls street and on the upper side of East Washington, and the Kurtz property across the bridge. Public square properties, even on the West Washington street side, slightly west of where Jefferson intersects, were believed in the favored district.

Separate Reports

To separate reports on the survey will be compiled by Mr. Blanton and the other by Mr. Brown. However, the inspectors' recommendations will probably agree inasmuch as they conferred together here before departing last night.

"Competing sites" is the term given land which to the inspectors look desirable, and they file their resumes in that order with their opinions as (Continued On Page Two)

Dr. Michelson Is Slowly Sinking

Dean Of American Physicians Given Only Few Hours To Live

(International News Service)
PASADENA, Calif., May 9.—Death hovered over Dr. Albert A. Michelson, dean of American physicians, early today. His physicians gave him only a few more hours to live. Dr. Michelson last night remained in the coma into which he lapsed Thursday. His condition has grown steadily worse since a nervous collapse seven weeks ago.

It was revealed that the Nobel prize winner, from his bed, dictated the results of his latest experiment in the measurement of the speed of light. The dictation, which will permit other scientists to carry on where he left off, was completed only four days ago.

German DO-X Plane Fails To Start Across Atlantic Due To Heavy Load

HELPING WINDS FAIL TO BLOW

(International News Service)
RIO DE JANEIRO, May 9.—An attempt by the German flying boat Do-X to take off early today from Bissagos Island, near the African coast, on its long-awaited flight to South America, failed because of its heavy load and the absence of helping winds, according to information received by the National Telegraph wireless bureau here.

Makes Test Flights.

BERLIN, May 9.—The giant German seaplane Do-X, preparing for a flight across the Atlantic to Brazil, is still at Bissagos Island, near Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, it was announced here today by the Dornier company, builder of the huge seaplane.

The ship is making frequent short test flights in the neighborhood of Bolama, seeking an ideal place for the trans-Atlantic take-off, the announcement said.

After each test flight, the ship is returned to its anchorage off the island, which has no means of communication with the mainland.

Dornier officials expected to be advised by means of the ship's radio as soon as the Do-X starts across the ocean.

Jury Tampering Rumor Circulates

Officials In Youngstown Are Silent On Rumor On Matter

ENGLE LEAVES LOT OF CORRESPONDENCE

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 9.—Officials investigating the relations between Utilities officials and mahoning county's public officials with the aid of a special grand jury today maintained a close lip on rumor that several of the jurors had been "approached" in the probe.

A secret conference between the two out of town judges appointed by the supreme bench and the two special prosecutors in the probe which has delved deeply into the affairs of the office of Ray Thomas, the county prosecutor, gave rise to the rumors. It was unofficially reported that the star chamber session took under consideration the activities of several persons not officially connected with the probe who are alleged to have been tampering with the special grand jury.

While the secret conference was in session, the grand jury continued its sweeping inquiry into Youngstown's political and judicial affairs. Most of the time yesterday was said to have been spent in investigation of the financial affairs of Thomas to a greater degree than was posed recently when depositions were taken in the $100,000 slander suit instituted against the prosecutor by Attorney A. M. Henderson.

Engle Leaves Data

Harry Engle, the deposed Traction commissioner, and central figure in the probe, left a large bundle of correspondence with the jury ostensibly in support of what he said when he promised to "tell all" about his relations with the Ohio-Edison company and Mahoning county's reigning political leaders.

Numerous other officials from banks and trust companies have been summoned behind the "closed doors" of the probe. Their names were withheld by the special prosecutors and other officials in the probe.

Counterfeit Bill Passed At Service Station

Charles E. Cox, 805 West Grant street, reported to the police this morning, that a man driving a Ford town car bearing a Michigan license drove into his service station and had his oil changed.

In payment for the service, he tendered a twenty dollar bill, and was given $18.75 in change, after which he drove away. When the bill was tendered to the bank, it was found to be a counterfeit. It bore serial number 31876274 A.

The police advise all people to be on their guard against a possible repetition of this act and report to the police without delay.

GUNMEN AND GANGSTERS ARE LOSING OUT TO LAW

Captures Of Leading Gunmen Is Showing Steady Increase

Authorities Are Gratified At Recent Turn Of Affairs In Nation

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 9.—"The law of averages is now working against the gunmen."

This was the assertion today of Police Commissioner Edward J. Mulrooney of New York City when asked by International News Service to comment upon the recent success of the authorities here, and in other cities, in dealing with killers and desperadoes. This success is indicated by the following recent events:

- Recent Captures
1. The capture in New York City of Francis ("Two-Gun") Crowley, the "cop killer," and Rudolph ("Tough Red") Durlinger, slayer of a "ten-cents-a-dance" hostess.
  2. The war declared by Anton Cermak, Chicago's newly elected mayor, against gunmen and racketeers in his city.
  3. The arrest near St. Joseph, Mo., of Fred Burke, "America's arch killer," who is supposed to have slain 21 persons.
  4. The capture in Dover, N. J., of James Nannery, "big shot" gangster and Sing Sing fugitive, who had six guns in his car when seized.
  5. The activity of state and federal authorities in Greene county, N. Y., in the move to clean out Jack ("Legs") Diamond and his gang of racketeers.

Stones Thrown By Collegians

Office Windows At Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, Are Broken

STUDENTS PROTEST ACTION OF BOARD

(International News Service)
TIFFIN, O., May 9.—Alarmed over a stone-throwing escapade in which rocks were hurled through windows in an office at Heidelberg college, narrowly missing Dr. Charles E. Miller, the veteran president, authorities today began an investigation to learn the identity of the assailant.

Students ventured the opinion that the stones might have been thrown as a part of a controversy between students and administration officials over the failure of the college to reinstate Dr. Newell W. Sawyer, professor of English.

Immediately after Dr. Miller announced that Dr. Sawyer was not to be retained, students circulated petitions calling upon the board of trustees to reappoint him. Kiklik, the student publication, protested the action and branded the dismissal as "unjust and uncalled for."

Students at Heidelberg also are circulating a petition demanding that Coach Herman Sawyer, now on sick leave, be appointed athletic director. The petition in Sawyer's behalf was started before announcement of Sawyer's dismissal was made.

Application For New Trial Filed

Mrs. Esther V. McMahon Not Satisfied With Verdict In M. Belle Emery Case

Application for a new trial has been filed at the court house by Esther V. McMahon, who lost her suit to collect $25,000 from M. Belle Emery on the grounds that Mrs. Emery had alienated the affections of her husband, D. M. McMahon.

In the motion for a new trial various errors in the trial of the case are alleged. It is further contended that the verdict in favor of the defendant was against the weight of the evidence. The notes of testimony will be written out after which arguments on the motion for a new trial will be made.

In the case of James E. Wallis against the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company in which a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $500 was rendered, an application for a new trial has been made by the defendant. The case is one in which the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company laid a pipe line through the property of the plaintiff in Wayne township.

Murders, Kidnapings And Bank Robberies Are Charged To Six Under Arrest

ARE ON WAY TO CHICAGO TODAY

Arrests Effected At East St. Louis, Ill., By Heavily Armed Force

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, May 9.—Suspects in more than a score of murders, kidnapings and bank robberies which attracted national wide attention, six alleged gangsters were due to arrive in Chicago today from East St. Louis, Ill., where they were seized.

The desperadoes, wanted by the Federal Government and by officials in several states, were en route to Chicago by automobile under heavy guard. They spent the night at Springfield, Ill., and were to stop at Sterling, Ill., to be viewed by witnesses of a bank robbery there.

Six Remnant Of Gang

Authorities believe the six may be the last remnants of the gang of Fred ("Killer") Burke, who is now doing a life sentence in Michigan for the killing of a policeman.

Some of the men, federal agents said, are suspected of taking part in the recent $2,000,000 robbery of the National Bank and several Chicago detectives combined their strength to awe the men and bring about their arrest without bloodshed late yesterday.

Arthur Mometer

I like the idea of a Mother's Day when we pause for a minute or two and pay some slight tribute to all that she's done, to the lady who's followed you through. And I like the idea of some flowers for her, but here's something I think you should hear, it's my own impression that Mother's Day, should be every day of the year. For just telling her once what a queen that she is, on a day set apart, isn't bad, but keep telling her that every day of your life, that's better than flowers 'm-lad. Every day in the year, would be more to the point, to tell her she's lovely and fine, for the day comes too soon when she's not here to tell, the weather, at noon, sixty-nine.

Says Building Of Good Road Hurt His Farm

Property Owner Seeking Damages, Would Like To Have Old Dirt Road Back

TOO MANY PEOPLE NOW PASS PLACE

To have a concrete road built past a farm is a detriment and depreciates the value of the farm, according to a statement made by a property owner along the New Castle-Volant road to the county commissioners this morning.

The property owner came to the county commissioners' office to collect damage which he believed had been done to his property. He wanted $1,000. The commissioners had offered him $100, and believed that this was a fair price.

It was then that the owner stated that he would rather not have a thousand dollars than that the road had never been improved. He said that since the improvement there was more travel, and people came along and stole his fruit and crops. He claimed that in the old days when the dirt road went past his place he did not have this trouble.

One of the commissioners ventured the assertion that his farm would sell for a great deal more money since the road was improved, but he could not see it that way. He said that he would get a lawyer and go after the county.

Few people have any idea of the troubles which commissioners have following the improvement of a road. Before the road is built delegations visit the commissioners' office and urge its improvement, but the minute that the work is done claims for damages come thick and fast.

There is no question but that some farms, where cuts or fills have been made, or where water has been turned on land, have been damaged. Some property owners are reasonable in their demands; others are just the opposite. Cases have arisen this summer in which the amount of damage asked has been more than the assessed valuation, but more than the farm would have actually paid for previous to the building of the road. Very few are willing to admit that the improvement has increased the value.

In a case before the commissioners a few days ago the owner of a property wanted over $8,000 damages. Reference to the assessors' books showed that the farm had been assessed at $2600. Taking it for granted that the farm was assessed at one half its value, the amount of damages asked was considerably more than twice the assessed valuation. This is but one of many cases that could be cited.

The commissioners want to use property owners' right, they say, but they do not want to hand out the taxpayer's money in payment of exorbitant claims. Where settlement cannot be made and the case goes before viewers or the court, the commissioners are handicapped for evidence, for the reason that a man's friends and neighbors do not like to antagonize him by putting a lower value on his property than he places himself.

You're the JUDGE

Business hadn't been going well lately for the A. Hitch-Hike company. The firm was considerably in debt to several jobbers for large bills of goods. Mr. Hitch-Hike called his creditors and arranged for a composition agreement among them. One creditor, the P. G. Pidge company, needed some additional coaxing to come in on the composition, so Mr. Hitch-Hike agreed with the elder Mr. Pidge that if Mr. Pidge would affix his signature agreeing to take a pro rata share of the proceeds of the sale of the assets of the Hitch-Hike concern, Mr. Hitch-Hike would give him a private note for the full amount due him.

Mr. Pidge agreed, and the assets were sold. The creditors got their shares, and then Mr. Pidge asked Mr. Hitch-Hike for the amount of the note. When Mr. Hitch-Hike refused to pay it, the Pidge concern at once filed suit. When the case came to trial the Pidge company agreed to disregard the note, for they now admitted it to be illegal, and asked only for the difference in the amount between what was originally due and the pro rata share received.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

Decision will be found on Classified Page.

BES L. LUSK DIES SUDDENLY FRIDAY NIGHT

usually worse until he finally passed away about nine o'clock last night.

Mr. Lusk was born in this city May 4, 1862, the son of Henry and Susan Shafter Lusk. He had spent his entire life in this city, taking up the profession of druggist, which he followed for many years until his retirement a few years ago, when he followed the brief of the city made this impracticable.

Mr. Lusk always took an active part in the civic and political life of the city, and during the last part of the 18th century and the beginning of the present century his activity in the affairs of the city took the form of serving the community as a common and select councilman under the old ward form of government which prevailed prior to 1913, when the present commission form of city government became effective. He was elected for many terms from the third ward district, where he was a resident at the time.

Due to his known business sagacity and ability, when the city form of government was changed to the commission form, he was one of the first five men selected in 1913 to serve as commissioners. He served as city commissioner from December, 1913, to January, 1916. Again in 1922 he was the choice of the people as a member of city council and served a full four-year term until 1926.

He was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church, also of Mahoning lodge, No. 243, F. & A. M., Lawrence Commandery, No. 62, Knights Temple, New Castle Consistory and Syria Shrine.

He was married to Jennie B. Rice, who survives him, as does one son, Donald Lusk; one grandson, Donald Lusk Jr., and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Lusk and Mrs. Harry Lusk.

Funeral services will be held Monday, May 11, 1931, at two p. m. at the late residence, 306 Moody avenue, with Dr. H. C. Weaver, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, in charge. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

ACTIVITIES IN FULLSWING AT TRAINING CAMP

Girl Scout "Little House" at Washington, D. C.

In announcing the change, Mrs. McGuire pointed out that larger and more central headquarters than those maintained at present in the local girl scout office at Harrisburg were made necessary by the eighteen per cent increase in membership during the last year. This expansion, she said, was part of the national five year development plan initiated more than a year ago.

Announcement also was made that three training courses for leaders will be conducted this summer at camps near Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Richmond, instead of the one usually given at Harrisburg. Camp May Flather, sponsored by the Washington Council, has been selected as one of ten throughout the country for the entertainment of foreign girl scouts and girl guides visiting the United States.

Two appointments were announced at the conference. They were the appointment of Mrs. Vance McCormick, Harrisburg, as regional representative on the National Public Relations committee, and that of Mrs. William Walker, of York, Pa., as correspondent for the Council Fire, the International Girl Scout and Girl Guide magazine.

FEDERAL MEN LEAVE TO REPORT ON SITES IN CITY

to whether or not the price being asked is exorbitant.

Can't Pay Prices

The properties here are too high and the government won't pay the figures wanted. If the price is that high, I must say that several of the bidders are making an effort to reduce the amounts and I'm looking for them to notify the treasury department of any further change just as rapidly as they reduce the bids, Mr. Blanton said.

The government is ready and has the $25,000 in cash to begin the local job at once, just as soon as the property selection and plan for the building can be completed. I don't want to see high price delay the project here.

Agent Blanton said the formal reports they make are strictly confidential until announced in Washington. No announcement was made as to the location considered best.

The inspectors expressed their appreciation of the assistance and support given them by residents during their stay, and declared that they had attempted to the best of their ability to determine what site would be the best for the proposed post office building.

Before departure they were taken on an automobile tour of the outlying districts so as to better study the layout of the city and its residential parts with their relation to the downtown area.

Tell your residents that Uncle Sam's only too eager to start excavation work here, but that it can't be done until the property is selected, and this can't be done until a fair price is offered, were the parting words of the inspectors as they left.

Agent Blanton boarded a train for Portsmouth, O., where today he was to begin selecting a site for that city's new post office. Mr. Brown boarded a train for his Pittsburgh office, from where he will commence his inspecting work in the post offices of 44 Pennsylvania counties.

Site selection in Ellwood City and Grove City will probably be started within a week or so, Mr. Brown indicated. He is expecting immediate instructions to assist in the surveys in those cities.

STAR LORE

THE MOON'S ORBITAL PATH AROUND THE SUN

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

It is now behind the two orbital motions of the moon—that is, its orbit around the earth combined with its journey with the earth around the sun. While the moon is making its monthly orbit around the earth, it is also making its annual orbit with the earth around the sun. The velocity of the earth's movement around the sun is more than 30 times that of the moon's around the earth. So if the observer could watch the motions of moon and earth from outside the system, he would see the moon, not making monthly loops around the earth, but moving in a monthly path slightly concave with reference to the sun.

SIX SUSPECTS IN SERIES OF CRIMES TAKEN IN CUSTODY

flat at 331 Broadway, East St. Louis. After warning tenants of every other building in the block to leave the scene, the officers surrounded the quarters of the desperadoes. Machine guns were mounted on neighboring structures to cover all exits.

A picked detail, heavily armed, then raided the apartment of the supposed gang, broke down the doors, and took those within into custody before they had time to resist. Besides the six wanted, three others were apprehended, later to be released.

The suspects were identified as Tommy Hayes, Thomas O'Conner, Jack Britt, Howard Lee, Ed Hawks, and William McQuillan.

The first three are wanted in St. Louis for the recent kidnapping for ransom of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, Jr., prominent physician, who was supposedly released without payment of tribute.

Clever Sleuthing

Roy McWhorter, postal inspector working out of Chicago, was given much of the credit for the arrests. He and his staff, including operatives from Washington, D. C., had worked intensively to solve the Lincoln bank robbery and the raid on the Denver mint.

The arrests were made on governor's warrants. This unusual procedure was taken so that they would have been effective in Missouri in case any of the suspects had fled from East St. Louis across the Mississippi.

The Denver crime was one of the boldest in history. On December 18, 1922, eight men rode up to the mint, seized 50 packets containing $4,000 each in currency, killed Charles Linton, a guard, and escaped. The packets were being transferred to an armored truck at the time.

Seven men, each equipped with a machine gun, participated in the Lincoln Bank and Trust company robbery. More than $1,000,000 of the loot was in liberty bonds.

Among other crimes of which the six are suspected are the murder last October of Mrs. Cora Garrison, wife of a wealthy Peoria, Ill., gambler; the kidnapping of Fred J. Blumberg, wealthy Monroe, Wis., brewer, and the kidnapping of Jimmy Hackett, Chicago gambler who said he was released only after payment of $150,000 ransom.

Have Narrow Escapes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 9.—Four State police narrowly escaped death in an accident near Litchfield early today while they were taking six supposedly desperate prisoners, captured in East St. Louis to Chicago.

The officers' car, first in a motorcade of eight, skidded into a ditch. The police were severely shaken up, but the extent of their injuries could not be immediately determined.

Fearing the mishap might give the captives a chance to escape, other officers in the motorcade surrounded the prisoners and covered them with shotguns and revolvers while attempts were made to drag the car from the ditch.

The prisoners are wanted by the federal government and in several states, suspected of bank robbery, murder and kidnapping, authorities said.

BANQUET ENJOYED AT THIRD CHURCH

One of the most delightful events of this week was the Mother and Daughter banquet, which was spread Thursday evening in the dining room of the Third United Presbyterian church.

Covers were arranged for 325 mothers and daughters and the beautiful hues of the charming frocks of the women blended most exquisitely with the pastel shades used in the table appointments. Spring flowers were profusely used on the tables and about the dining room.

The delicious menu was prepared by the members of the Women's Missionary Society. The Margaret Copeland Circle, and the Loyal Daughters of the King, and the serving was done by members of the Men's class who proved most efficient.

The young people's orchestra of the church played throughout the serving of the banquet and their numbers were interspersed with vocal selections, furnished by the Jubilee singers of Chicago, while Mrs. S. B. Copeland led in the pep singing, which kept things going at a lively pace.

The address to Mothers was given by Anna Belle Rodgers, who presented the oldest mother present, Mrs. Rob Mehard, and the mother with the most daughters, Mrs. Amos Zeigler, with beautiful flowers; a duet by Mrs. Charles Harris and Mrs. William H. Schoenfeld, and Mrs. C. Brown extended the greetings to the daughters. Little Gloria Pauline's readings were greeted with a great degree of enthusiasm and Mrs. W. D. Fullerton, Mrs. Charles Harris and Mrs. J. A. Kocher presented a trio number after which the guest speaker, Rev. Margaret Joshua was introduced and her talk to the mothers and daughters was one that will linger long in the memories of her hearers. At the close of her address Mrs. Joshua was presented with a bouquet of beautiful roses.

MOTHERS-DAUGHTERS BANQUET ON FRIDAY

Delightfully informal was the banquet of the Mothers and Daughters of the Central Christian church Friday evening, when 125 sat down to the festive board at 6:30 in the dining room of the church.

Mrs. I. Davis was chairman of dinner arrangements and Miss Laura Bell was in charge of the decorations and both were highly commended on the manner in which they handled their part of the entertainment; the menu was one of deliciousness and the appearance of the appetites. Yellow and green were the tones used and each place was marked by a clever favor, with yellow flowers and tall yellow tapers adding their bit to the color scheme.

Miss Mary Scherger acted as toastmaster and also gave the greeting to the mothers, which was responded to most graciously by Mrs. David Nelson; a solo by Dorothy Price, accompanied by Barbara Armstrong, was highly pleasing and the pep singing of the group added much to the festivity of the occasion.

Dainty favors were presented to Mrs. William Gilbert of Warren, O., who was the oldest visiting mother present; to Mrs. S. Zeigler, the mother of the most daughters; to Mrs. J. W. Walls, the oldest mother of the congregation present and to Mrs. Paul Huston, the youngest mother present.

Concluding the banquet the guests assembled in the church parlors, where they were addressed by Mrs. Carrie Jeffries Roberts, who took them on a trip to Europe and pointed out the beauties of each country through which they passed. She illustrated her talk with pictures of the various places.

Central Church.
The Women's Missionary society of the Central Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Johnson, North Beaver street, with Mrs. Oscar Rhodes leading the devotional opening.

Miss Lewis has been on leave for a year and expects to return to Africa during the summer months. She had on display articles made by the natives of Africa, which interested the women.

Mrs. Johnson's daughters, Eva Johnson and Mrs. Russell Melvin, served the members with a dainty luncheon.

THE NEW POSTOFFICE SITUATION

FEDERAL representatives have been here for the greater part of the week, and have investigated the sites which have been offered to the government for the new postoffice, for which an appropriation of $525,000 has been made by the government.

They are going back to Washington to make a report on conditions found here.

On the eve of their departure it was certain that six or seven of the sites offered would be satisfactory and could be used for the new building, providing the right price was asked. They were frank in their statements that not an acceptance price had been offered on any site they had viewed.

Several sites not in the original list were also inspected and prices are to be taken for these.

Those who have submitted prices for the properties they are offering can submit revised bids, the federal representatives said. It is evident that the first revised bids which are received by the secretary of the treasury that are believed to be more nearly their idea of the fair valuation of the sites, are likely to be accepted.

Unless revised bids are submitted to the secretary of the treasury, and these at once, New Castle may not receive any new postoffice at all, it was very freely hinted by these representatives as they prepared to leave the city.

Hence, it can easily be seen where the responsibility for the erection of the new postoffice lies. Property owners must submit revised bids for the sites they are seeking to sell to the government or New Castle stand the possibility of long delay in securing any new postoffice building, if not the total loss of the advantage so far gained in securing the appropriation.

The federal government is eager to start work on the new building in New Castle. The funds have been appropriated and once the site is selected and accepted, cash will be paid for it at once. The fact that an immediate cash settlement would be made for the property, should be an inducement for some extra liberal cutting on the prices of the properties that may be offered.

It was also announced by the federal representatives that the new postoffice and the new site are not contingent upon the disposition of the present building and site, in case a site other than the present location is accepted.

But, from developments of the week, it is certain that no price on any site as yet submitted is satisfactory, and responsibility for the fate of New Castle's new postoffice project rests upon the owners and the speed with which they make an offer that approaches the valuation estimates of the government experts.

The government will pay no fancy prices for any property. Revised bids on the sites should be submitted at once!

MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day will be a day of tender memories in some homes; of outspoken and unexpressed joy in all others, it is hoped, for where Mother is there must be radiant and beaming delight, fine in texture and deep in root.

It is a fine observance, Mother's Day, finer than anything else in all the catalog of special days. Few sons and daughters will miss its significance, fail to write home, send flowers, press kisses or otherwise express adoration for the best mother in the world—their own.

To those who are denied the priceless possession of a living mother, there remain loving memories to play the heart strings of reverence and affection. The children of such a mother no longer have her ministrations in the flesh, but they have an appreciation of her worth which by no way can other children have. It is the tragic separation of mother and child that begets the immeasurable love and affection the latter bears for her.

Mother's Day ought not be somber. While there is still opportunity let her know something of the esteem and love in which she is held by those whom she loves so infinitely. Let there be gladness and spiritual sunshine. Such are the gifts she will prize most highly.

VALUES: PAPER AND REAL

Had George F. Baker, the New York banker and reputedly "third richest man," died in 1929 instead of in the financially depressed month of May in the year of 1931 the state would have collected millions more in inheritance taxes from his estate than it now will, for the reason that his vast securities holdings had in 1929 a market value many times that of today.

The appraised value of this fabulous estate will be much lower than it was before "Black October," but it represents no loss for the heirs. The earnings will be little less, while boom market values represent merely paper profits. They will save millions in inheritance taxes and if they would collect their paper profits there will be more inflated markets.

Many mourners at the bier of the departed stock boom are sorrowing over phantoms. Their losses are imaginary, since they bought low and now find themselves back where they started from. The fortunes they built during the stock boom were all on paper.

One of the reasons for the present business depression is that men who counted their fortunes on the basis of the market quotations of two years ago think they have lost large sums, when, as a matter of fact, in many instances the real value of their holdings has suffered little if any change. Many of their securities paid no higher dividends under inflation than they do under deflation.

How About Bryan Untied?
You Can't Help Liking Him
Sorry He Went to White House

By MARSHALL MASLIN

You can't help liking that youngster, Bryan Untied. He's brave, he's manly, he's modest and just about everything every father wishes his boy to be. He knew what to do when that school bus stalled in the snow in Colorado, and he did more than any of the others to save the lives of 17 children.

And, afterwards, he didn't boast and he did not swell his chest. He was bewildered by all the fuss that was being made over him and when he talked over the radio he sounded as natural as any kid that ever lived. I certainly did like him and I feel sort of warm in the region of my heart whenever I think of him.

But—
I felt a little disappointed when I heard that the president of the United States had invited him to spend a couple of days at the White House as the guest of the nation. Not that Bryan didn't deserve that invitation. He rated it a lot more than a lot of other people do who get invited to the White House. I wasn't envious of Bryan. I was a little afraid for him. . . . Because sometimes it's much easier to do a brave deed than to live through the applause that follows it.

But Bryan went to the White House—a tall, skinny youngster with a treble voice, lugging along his camera and a suitcase—and he had a good time, I suppose. He talked to the president and played with the president's dogs and saw the king and queen of Siam and climbed the Washington monument, and did enough to remember all the rest of his life, and he was modest and natural and manly all through the experience.

Well, what am I fussing about? I'm not fussing. I'm just half wishing it hadn't happened. . . . Why do I wish that? Well, I have a lot of feeling that the way to build up a boy's character—or to keep it as fine as Bryan's—is to accept him as he is, to praise him when he does the right thing, but not to fuss too much over him. If he saves a life, you say, "That's fine, son. I knew you'd act like that."

He's proved he is superior and not like other people, but you talk to him as if he has merely done what all youngsters should do. You try to keep him from being a prig, or being self-conscious, or feeling that he's really a remarkable human being.

That's why I wish Bryan hadn't gone to the White House—because after all, visiting the president isn't one-tenth as important as saving 17 lives, and I wouldn't want Bryan Untied ever to lose that clean healthy sense of proportion that he has, right now, about things.

We don't want other boys to be doing brave things because they might be invited to Washington. We want them to be brave because they couldn't possibly be anything else. And we want Bryan to be quietly glad that he was allowed to save 17 lives—not merely proud of having been the guest of President Hoover.

Coolidge "nightcaps." What is a Coolidge nightcap?

It's a bowl of hot chocolate. According to Bruce Barton, who recently spent a week end with the Coolidges in Northampton, he and the ex-president retired to the kitchen after talking far into the night and Mr. Coolidge prepared the hot chocolate himself. Apples and crackers went with it.

clock in the next room; my watch on my wrist could only be heard by putting it close to my ear. Peace and quiet. How wonderful. I closed my eyes. Just then my neighbor decided to go for a ride and reversed his car from the garage to the street in low gear and shifted as he went by the house. Not so good! A person across the street was playing a hot tune on a guitar, but I didn't mind that. I lay still listening to the cars that were observing the boulevard stop close by. ### Butler Entertains Country With Many Forms Of Activity

Conspicuous Service Is Expected Of Marine Officer Whether In Nicaragua, Oregon Or In The Realm Of Diplomatic Controversy

News events regarding Col. Smedley D. Butler furnish material for light comments from the press, all of which offer evidence that this officer of the Marines has a permanent place in the affections of the American public, whether he is wanted to manage police in Oregon, or to straighten out things in Nicaragua, or is engaged in a radio controversy or a diplomatic tiff with the envoy of a country in the West Indies.

As to the Congressional Medal of Honor that he received, the question raised by the Hailan Minister as to the existence of the fort that was the scene of his bravery, the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE suggests that the envoy "may be under the influence of the American school of debunking bluntness who any day may produce a book to prove there never was a battle of Bunker Hill or that the Alamo is the invention of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce." The Chronicle concludes: "Whether Butler is spouting or takes a supercilious view of himself is an interesting problem for the psychologists. The superciliousness is not likely to have much of a funny bone. And yet—well, one guesses is as good as another on Gen. Smedley Butler."

Referring to both the ruling of the General of the radio for use of prohibited words and the diplomatic incident, the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS remarks: "We must admit a certain disappointment with Butler for his raising such a fuss. He ought to be big enough to laugh off both incidents and call it a day. His patience has been somewhat tried of late, particularly by the Mussolini affair, but he ought to get a grip on himself and rise above such picaresque business. We had always supposed that when the Marines were landing on some tropical island they could overlook a few mosquito bites."

Suggesting that the General "dramatize himself as a hard-boiled leatherneck, a devil-dog Marine in the story-book manner," the WORCESTER TELEGRAM says: "It is inevitable that a gentleman faithfully playing such a romantic role should occasionally get into trouble with unimaginative, work-a-day wights with whom he comes in contact. That has been General Butler's fate. When he speaks lines appropriate to the character which he is playing, the groundlings misunderstand him. They are not accustomed to theatre on this side of the footlights, and they are confused and confounded. And it is too bad. Regarded as an actor taking an heroic swashbuckling part, the general is a highly interesting and even entertaining person, who may be forgiven if he ceases his language with epithets which most of us avoid. The general himself might help if he would make a greater effort to temper his phrases in accord with time and place."

A suspicion that the officer is an object of "evident persecution" is raised by the RALEIGH NEWS AND OBSERVER, with the declaration that the radio director "seems to have instructions to treat proper way to treat a gentleman whose courage and valor have brought renown to his country." The PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE holds that the General "could not well overlook anything of a nature to cast aspersions upon his valor; neither could the Navy, which passed on his complaint to the State Department."

That paper also believes that "Congress is interested in any implied reflection upon its award of a medal." The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS states that "General Butler has knocked in the interest of amicable relations when he has been in the wrong" and "it is only right that he should be accorded his little musing now." The MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL sees force in his protest.

The proposal of Representative Fish that Gen. Butler be sent to the work in Nicaragua arouses the comment from the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST: "Mr. Fish's further proposal that General Butler be given as large a force of marines as he may think he needs for the job is out of character. General Butler is quite able to accomplish the whole business with a few well-chosen men. Anybody given enough men—say an Army of half a million or even a million—could scour the Nicaraguan jungle clean, but Smedley Butler could go through by himself and bring back a brace of Sandinos in his teeth. And he could have full and unmeasured latitude as to epithets, no bar to cursing and the whole wide landscape for speechmaking, and a third Congressional medal at the end of the road, if any."

Passing judgment on the requisition made for the services of Gen. Butler at the head of police affairs in Oregon, the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES remarks: "That he can give Oregon the kind of service it is seeking is not necessarily to be doubted because of General Butler's conversation proclivities. There is another angle to the matter, however, to which Oregon may not yet have given thought, but which inspires some apprehension among friendly neighbors. Oregon has not been known as a particularly obstreperous commonwealth. Quite to the contrary, its people have been regarded as more than ordinarily peaceable and law-abiding. The need of a state police force to maintain order has not been generally apparent."

Order upon the highest and most variously advertised talent in the country to organize the force. Briefing General Butler to Oregon invites national attention, and involves the chance of adverse as well as of desirable publicity."

"General Butler has been deeply interested in police work," records the Evening Bulletin in Philadelphia, "since his experience as Director of Public Safety here. He learned in Philadelphia something about the conditions, absent in Nicaragua, of a military establishment, which complicates the handling of a civilian force, and about the obstacles politics throws in the way of efficient and conscientious performance of police duty. He has come to the conclusion that the ultimate solution of the law enforcement problem in this country is the substitution of a mobile state force whose units could constantly be shifted, for municipal police. He may be too sanguine about the certainty of elimination of politics under this system, and in any case his ideas are probably too radical for wholesale acceptance anywhere at this time. But any organization or reorganization of State police forces anywhere will interest him immensely."

Fair Rate Board Bill Is Opposed

President Of Bell Telephone Company Says Proposals
Are Unwise

SAYS PROGRAM IS MENACE TO STATE

Think ahead before you buy. Ask yourself: "How new is my car?" "Without free wheeling?" "Studebaker is all set. No mid-year model changes. Buy your Studebaker now!"

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 9.—Political circles in the Capital today bent their interest concerning the utility situation temporarily on a letter from Leonard H. Kinnard, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, to all members of the Senate, objecting to passage of the administration Fair Rate Board bills in the Upper House as perilous to interests of investors and employees of public utility companies. Kinnard attacked the Fair Rate measures, now before a Senate committee as a method of substituting "administrative expediency" in direction of public utility regulation for "the collective judgment of the Senate."

His letter, Kinnard said, was written in the interests of the investor's in his own company, its 22,000 employees and the company management.

Would Stifle Progress
The proposals of the Fair Rate bills, the latter said, "appear to be neither wise nor reasonable; the matters proposed to be placed under control of the Fair Rate Board are, in my opinion, rather too vital to be so dealt with."

"The proposal that a public utility company," the letter said, "Give up its constitutional rights and accept, in lieu of present value, what is termed 'the prudent investment basis' for earnings, would generally result in stifled progress of public utility service. I cannot conceive of the attraction of sufficient capital to keep these services healthy and expansive if that basis is adopted."

The telephone head also objected to passage of the bills on the ground that a Fair Rate Board might delay its decision on rate increase appeals so long that utilities would "stagnate."

"The 'recapture' principle proposed by the bills, Kinnard declared, has been recommended for abolition by the Interstate Commerce Commission and is the quickest method of 'vitiating present investment and driving away future investment in utility enterprises.' The 'recapture' proviso calls for return to investors of all earnings of utilities over an arbitrary, fixed 'fair return,' generally estimated at 7 percent.

The language of the administration bills, Kinnard claimed, disclosed the "Unmistakable, ultimate purpose of the legislation to turn complete management of public utilities over to the Fair Rate Board."

"If the public wants to experience the virtual effect of government ownership here is an opportunity. But... I believe they do not... and emphasize my strong conviction that the proposals referred to are hostile to the interests of Pennsylvania and its people."

To Dedicate Greek Church On Sunday

Archbishop Athenagoras Arrives Today For Elaborate Celebration

EXPECT CEREMONY WILL DRAW CROWD

Coming to direct Sunday afternoon's formal dedicatory program at St. George's Greek Orthodox church, East Reynolds street, Archbishop Athenagoras, head of the Hellenic Orthodox church in North and South America, arrived here and officers of the New Castle chapter, Order of Ahepa, greeted him.

Archbishop Athenagoras will make the principal address tomorrow afternoon at the ceremonies of dedication and later will speak at the dedicatory banquet program in The Castleton, to consume most of the evening hours.

Leaders To Attend

Supreme President George Philis, national head of the Order of Ahepa, with other Ahepa leaders and church dignitaries from cities surrounding will be in attendance. In commenting on the church situation in America on reaching here, the archbishop said:

"I am so glad to find my people in peace. It shall be my mission here to organize them—to bring them together, the young people through Sunday schools and clubs; the older ones through their various interests."

"I shall try to cultivate good relations, not only among all members of the Orthodox church in America, but also with other denominations as well."

"I have many letters from American friends in Greece introducing me to many great persons here in America and I am pleased to have the opportunity of greeting the friends of the church here in New Castle, who have assisted them in their labor of love for God."

After a week of intensive and co-operative work by the hundreds of women in the city and county, the drive for memberships in the Ladies Aide society of the Jameson Memorial hospital comes to a close, although there will still be a few calls left for next week, in places where no one was found at home, or where return trips were requested.

Some territories covered in the drive brought forth great surprises in the way of numbers of new memberships enrolled and it is hoped by an early date a full report of the work done can be given to the public.

The spirit of the persons visited has proved encouraging to the workers, as most every one was desirous of helping the good cause represented by this group of women who have given so lavishly of their time and efforts the past week.

Making Plans For County Convention

Ninety Third Annual Sunday School Convention To Be Held On June 11

Plans for the 93rd convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which will be held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Thursday, June 11, were made at a meeting of the executive committee which was held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday, with the president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., presiding.

The convention speakers will include Dr. A. E. Driggers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Kittanning, who was one of the speakers at the state convention in Scranton last year; Walter E. Myers, general secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association, and Miss Lillian E. Reed of Philadelphia, the children's division superintendent of the state association, as well as others.

At the afternoon session a shield will be awarded to the women's adult class of the county having the largest percentage of attendance based on enrollment, and at the evening session an award will be made to the men's adult class of the county having the largest percentage of attendance based on enrollment.

A special music program for the convention is being prepared by John W. Owens, choir leader of the First Baptist church, and ample time will be given for inspirational praise services and special musical numbers.

The time of the various sessions will be announced and will be so arranged as to split the difference between eastern standard time and daylight saving time so as to be as convenient as possible both to the county and city.

Central Christian Mothers' Day

The young mothers of the Central Christian church will occupy the choir loft and furnish the music for the Mothers' Day program to be given in the church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Central and Third Ward firemen who answered a telephone alarm from a person on South Walnut street who declared there was a fire in the home of Mrs. Frank Dunlap, 206 South Walnut street, arrived at the place shortly before 4 p. m. Friday to find there was no fire in the house.

It was explained by firemen that smoke, escaping from a heater had entered some rooms, causing a neighbor to call firemen.

Highland Pupils Present Operetta

Little Folks Make Charming Debut On High School Auditorium Stage

Mother Goose Characters Quaintly Portrayed By Pupils Of Elementary Grades

As the curtains were drawn back on the high school stage Friday evening, a dainty scene was presented as the gardens of Mary, Queen of Scots, came into view and there was Mary watering her flowers all in a row, and the old woman and her shoe house.

Soon she was joined by Bo-Peep, Little Boy Blue, Simple Simon, Jack and Jill, Humpty Dumpty, Jack and the Giant and many other characters from "Storyland" which was the name of the operetta presented by the pupils of the Highland school, of which R. G. Leslie is principal, under the direction of Miss Helen Allen and Miss Pearl Hutchinson.

The orchestra of the George Washington High School gave a program of numbers before the curtains were drawn and Charlotte Bartlett acted as accompanist throughout the play.

The little folks were cunning in their quaint costumes and their sweet little voices and charming manner were greeted with much applause.

Trinity Church Special Sermon

Rector Will Take Up Evils Of Divorce In His Sunday Morning Sermon

On Mothers' Day thinking of the glory of motherhood and shall we say fatherhood also, shall we not frankly face one of our greatest American problems which breaks the heart of every true mother namely divorce and by so doing try to make future mothers happier? The integrity of the home is nearest the heart of every true mother. She will give her life for her children; but divorce destroys the home and blights childhood.

In Trinity Church at the 11 o'clock service this will be the subject of the Rev. Philip C. Pearson, who will interpret the attempt made by the Episcopal Church in the proposed new canon on Marriage and Divorce, which is to be acted upon at the coming General Convention of the Church meeting in Denver, Colo., in Sept., of this year. It is a problem which primarily concerns the lay people and Mr. Pearson is trying to give that necessary information which shall enable anyone connected with Trinity Church to express themselves so that their opinions may be forwarded to the Commission having possible changes in the Canon in charge. There is to be one more meeting of it before its final report is formulated for the Convention.

Plantation Night At Baptist Church

Closing Musical Program Of Evangelistic Meetings Will Be Given To-night

Singers Will Present Cotton Picking Scene During The Days Of Slavery

It is certain the First Baptist church auditorium will be crowded this evening when the Jubilee Singers of Chicago, who are here with the meetings being sponsored by the City Rescue mission give their "Plantation Night" program.

Two weeks ago when they presented a similar program there were hundreds who could not get within the church doors. This quartet is formed of a group of colored folks of great culture and musical training as well as unusual ability; not only are they gifted in a musical way, but as elocutionists each one is capable of reading any number of eloquent numbers.

The program to be presented this evening is their own creation and is unique. The singers will be costumed as the slaves of old and will enter with a huge basket of cotton on their arm and as they present their first number the scene will be most realistic as they pluck the cotton bolls from the plants. Number after number of these plantation melodies grip the hearts of their hearers and the tonal qualities of the individual voices are brought out; Eddie Lango, the tenor; John Logan, the bass; Mrs. J. Weather, the soprano, and Miss Olva Ellison, the contralto.

In addition to the Saturday evening program the singers will be heard Sunday in the various services planned by the City Mission. A mass meeting at 3 p. m. will be held in the First Baptist church and the closing service of the campaign will be held Sunday evening in the same place.

Rev. C. A. Blackmore, of Erie, will bring the gospel messages.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON May 9.—First seven days of May are expected to average considerably below normal temperatures over the continent in general, but as storm wave of mild force crosses continent during week centering on nine, a sharp rise in average temperatures will be expected to occur; this warm wave will only be expected to last four days and to be followed by a northern cold wave and southern cool wave that will last a week. No material damage is expected from low temperatures after first week of month has passed; during first week of month, some damage will probably occur to tender plants in middle latitudes that have gone into the ground too early. Best growing weather of month will be expected as storm wave of moderate force crosses continent during week centering on seventeenth; this will be a warm storm center and will be followed by a modern cold wave north and cool wave south and moderate but general precipitation. From now until mid-summer, principal evaporation point will be located on Pacific ocean just west of California; this will bring most moisture from due west of southern states and southwest of northern states and Canada. Most of this moisture will be precipitated on central and northern Pacific slope, central Prairie Provinces, central and eastern Great Central Valleys; a gradual but general decrease in precipitation will be expected during May and June excepting western Great Central valleys where a slight increase will be expected. This decrease in precipitation will not reach a point during May and June where serious damage would occur during those months, but in some areas will result in damage later in season, as subsoil moisture will be short and surface moisture will not last through the season. In most of the winter wheat belt moisture will be sufficient to last through the winter wheat season, but in a large part of spring wheat belt and Atlantic coast states there is practical-ly no subsoil moisture at the present time making conditions that would be almost impossible to produce a normal yield in such areas. Many readers of these bulletins will remember that I forecasted that Great Lakes levels would fall during the eight years following 1927. Conditions of subsoil moisture in vicinity of Great Lakes at this time is such that those forecasts are sure to be correct. It would now take at least two years of above normal precipitation to put sufficient moisture in subsoil to make a normal drainage. During the next four years the Chicago Drainage District officials will be able to judge whether too much water is being taken from the lakes; by the time four more years have passed, Jupiter Pluvius will be back on the job and the levels of the Great Lakes will be rising again, providing too much water is not being taken out. This will also affect the levees of the Ohio, Missouri and Mississippi rivers to the Gulf.

Award Contracts For Extra Work On College Jobs

Grove City College Lets $70,000 Work For Finishing-Up Details

Additional contracts amounting to nearly $70,000 for detail work in connection with Grove City college's $750,000 campus building program have been awarded during the past few days, it was learned today.

The work provided is to be done inside or outside the new chapel or science buildings, the boys' dormitory project not being included in these bids for the reason that it is only in the foundation stage.

R. A. Eckles, local architect in charge of the work, said the chapel building is at present ready for its roof and the science hall now stands two floors high and workmen are preparing to rush the third. The boys' dormitory was started some time after the other work was launched.

One New Castle firm, Burns anderry, received one of the additional contracts that were let, their bid for the sidewalk work being the lowest of all estimates submitted.

Awards were made for stained glass work in the chapel, chapel pews, chancel woodwork, landscaping, lighting fixtures and foot bridge jobs about the campus.

It was announced that both the chapel and science buildings will be ready for dedication next fall, while the boys' dormitory work will be completed soon after.

Central American policy: Stirring up a hornet's nest and telling residents Americans to duck or do their own swatting.

The chief cause of unrest is that people become materialists before they get any material.

Pinchot Charges Utilities Seek Political Power

"Utilities Will Control Presidential Elections Unless Curbed," Says Pinchot

RESUMES TOUR ON FAIR RATE BILLS

(International News Service) HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 9.—Carrying his stumping campaign for his fair rate legislation into Western Pennsylvania today, Gov. Gifford Pinchot left here for Altoona, with the declaration behind him that "The public utility issue will elect presidents".

"There is no other question," the governor told an audience here, "likely to occupy so large a field in the next few years. This tremendous conflict is destined to be felt, and felt without delay, in every corner of America."

"This issue will elect presidents; it will defeat governors, senators and representatives; it will overturn political parties and bids fair to revolutionize the political map of America."

Preparations for the utility battle, the governor said, have gone forward for decades and "a little group of far sighted men and women have seen what was coming and have done their best to call public attention to the danger."

Now Bearing Fruit
Those preparations, Gov. Pinchot declared, are now bearing fruit and the issue rose in the last Pennsylvania state election.

Most important angle of the utility conflict, the governor said, is that it will determine whether the people or "a little group of the over-rich" shall control the government.

Turning to local matters, the governor pointed out that Huntingdon and Blair counties are served by the Penn Central Light & Power company and while that firm's earnings have averaged around 7 per cent it is part of "a cloud of corporations laid down over Pennsylvania with the purpose of hiding the facts and preventing effective regulation."

The governor told his audience that Sen. Richard W. Williamson, Huntingdon, will vote to report the fair rate bills from committee but had not indicated how he would vote on the floor and urged constituents of the senator to use their influence to get Williamson to support the bills.

At Altoona Today.
Today the governor will speak at Altoona at noon, then go to Bedford for a late afternoon address and jump to Somerset for a speech tonight. He will remain at Somerset tonight and return to Harrisburg Sunday.

Next Wednesday the governor's stumping tour will be resumed in western Pennsylvania when he goes to Greensburg for a speech and will begin the last leg of his speech-making campaign for fair rate board legislation.

Giffill Wins In Suit By Bank

Will Not Have To Pay Peoples National Bank Of Ellwood City On Ross Credit

In the case of the Peoples National bank of Ellwood City against J. Clyde Giffill, which was tried before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, the jury brought in a verdict this morning in favor of the defendant. This means that Mr. Giffill will not have to pay about $5,500 claimed by the bank.

The case was one in which the bank claimed that orders given to it by Ross Bros., plastering contractors, having the sub-contract from Giffill for the plastering of the George Washington junior high school, should be paid by Giffill, although Ross Bros. never finished the contract, and Mr. Giffill had to finish it at his own expense and at a considerable loss.

The bank had extended credit to Ross Bros., when they secured the contract, but Mr. Giffill claimed that this was on the bank's own responsibility, as he had not guaranteed the credit.

"Amos" Takes A Hand At Leadership With 40 Cavalry Steeds At His Fast Hoofs

Brings Animals Back To Corral After Half Hour Of Wild Excitement

Proud "Amos," handsome cavalry bay mount of Sergt. Willard Miller, U. S. Cavalry instructor for Troop F, decided that affairs at a National Guard stable were too tame for him when he found himself and the rest of the outfit's horses out for an airing in the west side stable corral in Scotland Lane yesterday afternoon.

Today the commander of the troop, Captain Harvey G. Burin, was making a tour of inspection throughout the Union township district to ascertain the amount of damage caused by forty horses when they were led thundering through fields and backyards by "Amos."

The top sergeant, George F. Seyfert, had unknowingly left the corral open when he went for a ride on horseback. "Amos," according to reports of spectators, suddenly made a mad dash for the opening of the corral, followed by the rest of the troop horses.

His leadership of his stablemates acknowledged, "Amos" thundered out to the troop drill field and was soon joined by the rest. The half hour stampede of forty horses then began in earnest. They galloped east of the stable buildings and through St. Mary's cemetery for a half mile.

A half hour later "Amos" and his chargers sped into the corral after troopers had augmented their ranks for the purpose of rounding up the wayward horses.

Troopers who had been near the corral at the time of the outbreak started in hot pursuit on foot but could make no showing against the speed of the disappearing horses. The troopers lost track of the animals who continued on their way unmolested. Roadways near the cemetery were covered rapidly by the horses. Slight damage to property was reported by residents in the district, including Clarence Hammond of the Mahoningtown road.

The Junior Missionary Society of the Bethel A. M. E. church gave a program in the church Friday evening that was of a highly entertaining nature and the church was well filled.

President of the society is Gertrude Taylor; secretary, Thelma Baker; treasurer, Vivian Davidson, and advisor, Mrs. S. L. Atkinson.

Senator Hastings Predicts Hoover To Be Re-Elected

Delaware Senator Makes Stirring Speech At Pittsburgh Conference

TAMMANY HALL UNDER ATTACK

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, May 9.—With the declaration "We shall not let Tammany Hall name the next president of the United States," Senator Daniel O. Hastings, (R) of Delaware, on Friday predicted the re-election of President Hoover in 1932 and painted a bright verbal picture of the return of prosperity under Republican guidance of national affairs.

Speaking before the Spring Regional Conference of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, Senator Hastings said: "Before another year the rains will begin to fall and the grain will begin to grow. The wheels of industry will increase their speed, the smoke from their chimneys will increase and we shall see Republican prosperity approach from the distance."

Democrats Will Hide
"We shall see Democrat candidates and Democrat leaders hunting for a safe place to hide as Republican prosperity enters the highways, the by-ways and the homes of American people, and everybody everywhere will begin to wonder why they ever lost faith in the Republican party and its principles."

Hastings said Republicans must be prepared "to admit the great unrest that exists in the country and the natural tendency to blame the present administration for all the ills and troubles that we have experienced and continue to experience."

He rapped "so-called Republicans" who join with Democrats in "complaining to the whole world that the present administration is lacking in leadership" and who "would have us believe that a real leader would have saved us much of the difficulty that we have experienced during the past year."

"If for any reason, Mr. Hoover should not be available as a candidate for 1932," he warned, "it would in my judgment be a crushing blow to the Republican party and a sad thing for the country as a whole."

Hoover Policies
"The battle of 1932 must be fought out largely upon the Hoover policies and the Republican party must be able and willing to defend him and them before the country."

Hastings scored Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, whom he termed "the most outstanding candidate for the nomination for the presidency of the Democratic party," he said:

"One thing I think is to be said to his credit and that is that he had courage to endeavor to hold up political conditions in the great State of New York as an example for others in the Union and for the nation itself."

"A person who has courage enough to say that political conditions in New York are reasonably satisfactory to the country has courage enough to run as a candidate for the presidency on the Democratic ticket, and in my judgment, courage enough to do pretty nearly anything."

How I Won A Handsome Husband

I Owe It All To My Faithful Pekingese, Who Turned The Trick For Me By His Brave Deed

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

While most wives are finding fault with their mates, I think it only fair to my husband to let everybody know that with a few exceptions, I am the happiest little woman in this town of 112 population. I never knew so much bliss could be possible and I owe it all to my Pekingese dog, but I will come to that later.

When I was a young girl of 14 I had a very disastrous love affair, my fiancé deserting me at the altar for his wife and children in a nearby village. Of course, he had told me he was married, but I never dreamed he took his family seriously.

Through mutual friends, I afterwards discovered that all the time he was courting me, he was buying food and clothing for his children and also supplying his wife with an occasional knick-knack.

'Twas A Foggy Night.
This horrible deception went on for 17 years and I never suspected him until one day it was foggy and as he had no light on his bicycle he had to spend the night at my house.

Owing to a little misunderstanding with the furniture company we were practically out of beds and he had to sleep with my father. Dad a chronic sufferer from insomnia, stayed awake and heard my fiancé talking in his sleep.

All night long he kept mentioning the name of Edith, and you can't blame my father for getting suspicious. Of course, my name is Edith too, but I spell it Edythe.

Why We Have Breakfast.
The next morning dad came right out and accused him at the breakfast table. (Whenever we had overnight guests, we always gave them breakfast, as we never liked to let anybody walk out of our house on an empty stomach.)

This made my fiancé's blood boil and he accused me of sending spies to bed with him. My blood began to boil, too, and I brought to a close an engagement that had lasted for 17 years. With a broken heart, and through a veil of tears, I told him that our betrothal was at an end and released him from the solitaire which he was on the verge of buying me.

Broken hearted, I decided to leave home and get away from all my friends and relatives, so I moved into a house around the corner which belonged to my father. It wasn't much of a house. It had no windows or roof, but dad had bought it for a rainy day.

A Long, Long Time.
I lived here for 15 years with my faithful Pekingese dog, Herman.

A terrible thing for one who has been used to love and affection to remain in seclusion for 15 years. The monotony of it was becoming unbearable, when one day the house caught on fire and I was insulted by a couple of the firemen. I didn't want him to strain them, I helped him pull. We both tugged for over 15 minutes, but our efforts were rewarded, and we dragged into the middle of the floor one of the handsomest-looking burglars I have ever seen.

— One of the handsomest looking burglars I have ever seen.

Having a very agile mind, I set Herman's teeth in the intruder's leg while I reached for the telephone. In less than half an hour my telephone call was answered by a knock at the door. I opened it, and in walked the minister that I had sent for.

Love Me—Or Die!
To make a long story short, I married the burglar on the spot. A revolver was in my hand and one in the minister's. The burglar looked up into my eyes and realized it was a case of love at first sight.

This was last night, and our marriage has turned out to be one of the happiest unions in the world. After all these years of waiting, I have been rewarded with a husband.

While my personality may have something to do with it, my husband and I both agree that we owe everything to my Pekingese dog who dragged him out from under the bed.

Will Power Does It.
One night, having a bad case of indigestion from eating some slightly spoiled shrimp, I went to bed early. Using a little will power, I succeeded in getting my mind off my stomach and fell asleep.

I don't believe I had been asleep an hour when I heard some barking, followed immediately by growling. With a start, I sat up, and lo and behold my faithful Pekingese was dragging a burglar from under the bed.

No Personality Changes Except Secondary Ones Caused By Secretions

When Bodily Functions Are Diseased, Mind And Personality May Be Warped, Explains Dr. Clendenning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Some of the new discoveries concerning the activities of the ductless glands have been discussed this week. Particularly the effectiveness of the extract of the parathyroid gland and the very recently announced isolation of the extract of the cortex of the adrenal gland are indications of solid progress in this field.

Nothing of late has arisen to substantiate any of the wild theories that were rife ten or fifteen years ago about the glands—that overabundance of one gland's secretion produced one kind of individual, that altered function of some of these glands produced criminals or geniuses, as the case might be. Napoleon was simply due to decreased pituitary secretion, and Lincoln to increased pituitary secretion, according to these ideas.

Those ideas still belong to the region of airy speculation. It was not so long ago that two youthful murderers were defended on the grounds that they were the victims of glands, and the jury solemnly heard testimony about the effects of thymic-pituitary imbalance.

Doubtless the ductless glands do affect personality in a secondary way. If your bodily functions are deviating along certain channels, your mind and personality are likely to be warped also. But the way the character is warped depends more on what it was to begin with than what the glands do to it. If the pituitary gland makes a boy fat and ungainly, of feminine type of body with sissy ways, he will naturally be different in personality and mentality from other boys, but sometimes this will actually contribute to his worldly success.

"The person of average schizotypic temperament shows a tendency to be independent of others; that is to say he tends to be an 'introvert' rather than an 'extrovert' (in the sense of Jung). He does not vibrate in sympathy with his surroundings; he likes to be alone rather than with other people. But if he remains healthy, he may do excellent work; many great scholars, rulers and aristocrats have been asthenics of schizotypic temperament." So writes a medical author.

Naturally being sick and physically abnormal many of these patients develop mental states of varying degrees of melancholy or abnormality. One physician, Dr. Leonard Marks, developed a disease of the pituitary gland with increase in the size of the hands, face and feet—i. e. acromegaly. He wrote a book about his experience and said that during the development of his disease the predominant mental state was despondency. But this is perfectly natural in any chronic illness and need not be ascribed to the change in pituitary secretion.

One patient with pituitary disease was markedly disturbed mentally, was arrested for handling stolen goods, wrote worthless checks, and took a 2,000-mile automobile ride by way of Pittsburgh, Toledo and Detroit in four days for the purpose, as he explained, "to get the fresh air." He was confined to an asylum and put under treatment, but the point is that even when properly treated for his pituitary trouble he did not return to normal. Many patients without pituitary disease might have the same sort of mental disturbance had. So we must conclude that the ductless glands produce no specific or characteristic mental changes.

E. E. Haslam, Engineer Sees Vision Coming True In Pymatuning Dam

One of the interested spectators at the signing of the Pymatuning Dam Bill in Harrisburg on Thursday was E. E. Haslam, the father of the Pymatuning Dam. Mr. Haslam is now assistant chief of the Flood Prevention Bureau of the Department of Forests and Waters, and made the first survey of the Pymatuning swamp and the Shenango River.

Back in 1912 Mr. Haslam was induced to come to Pennsylvania from the International Waterway Company of New York, and was asked to survey the swamp with an idea of draining it. This was thought to be the only thing that could be done. When he arrived on the ground and saw the possibilities, Mr. Haslam's vision went far beyond that of those who would drain the swamp. His idea was that the basin of the swamp above Jamestown would make an ideal reservoir to provide adequate water supply for the Shenango Valley, and prevent floods.

His visionary idea at that time received some slight attention. Gradually the full import of the idea dawned upon industrial men of this section and by 1915 there were a number of boosters. Mr. Haslam stayed in this district until 1919, surveying the stream, making plans, and building sentiment for the idea of a Pymatuning Dam.

Gradually money was appropriated for further surveys, for land purchases, and in addition, the industries of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio contributed $400,000 for land purchases. In 1927 the Legislature appropriated $350,000, and in 1929, $475,000 for purchase of land and this completed this particular end of the work.

The climax to the Pymatuning Dam came in this session. Despite a session of cross purposes, despite factional bickerings and reprisals, the legislative delegations from Lawrence, Mercer and Beaver Counties were able to steer the Stevenson Bill through the House and Senate and Governor Pinchot added the capstone to a foundation of twenty years building when on Thursday he affixed his signature to the bill.

As he signed the bill, Mr. Haslam was sitting with Fred L. Rents of New Castle who has been actively working on the Pymatuning Dam since its inception. As the governor finished the last letter in his name, Mr. Haslam looked over at Mr. Rents and a broad smile of satisfaction broke over his face.

For him it was the completion of his idea, the only thing remaining is for the dam to be built and this will start immediately. After twenty years of planning and dreaming, Mr. Haslam was present at the event that makes the carrying out of his 1912 vision.

Deputy Sheriff Proves Inventor

Asks For Patent On Device That Will Make Spaghetti Serving A Pleasure

Deputy Sheriff A. T. Vendetti has invented what is called a "quick server" for spaghetti and kindred foods, for which an application for a patent has been made. Searches at the patent office show that nothing of the kind has heretofore been patented.

Dishing out spaghetti has always proven almost as difficult as eating it. Usually the operator uses two forks in removing it from the container to the individual plates, and even thus equipped it takes an expert to do the trick gracefully. With Mr. Vendetti's server, which is in the shape of a clay operated on the principle of a pair of pinchers, enough spaghetti to fill a plate can be scooped up at one operation.

When he gets his patent Mr. Vendetti will turn his attention to the invention of a fork or shovel that will enable the novice to eat spaghetti with the dexterity of an expert.

Criticism Of Postal Service Go To Capitol

Clipping Service Will Keep Department In Touch With Service

POSTMASTERS TO CLIP ALL ARTICLES

Special Washington Correspondent of the New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Patrons of the New Castle post office who feel inspired to voice compliments, criticism or suggestions about the postal service may get their complaints or plaudits directly before federal officials by having them printed as letters to the editor in local newspapers.

First Assistant Postmaster General Arch Coleman has decided that the Post Office Department might get a good idea of how people react to the postal service through the medium of newspaper clippings. So in a general order sent out to all postmasters, Mr. Coleman has instructed those officials to furnish the Department newspaper clippings containing suggestions, criticisms, or other references of interest to the federal postal authorities.

Mr. Coleman has directed the postmasters to forward to the Department headquarters here such newspaper articles with a slip attached indicating the name of the publication, place of publication and date. This order, in effect, means that any postal patron wishing to offer criticisms or suggestions may get his contributions directly under the eye of federal officials, an accomplishment which is not always so easy.

Interest Rate On Bonus Loans Will Be Changed

New Interest Rate Will Be Charged At Expiration Of Loan Anniversary

Information relative to the interest rate on bonus loans by veterans has been secured from the U. S. Veterans Bureau by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross.

According to the statement sent out by the Veterans Bureau, the interest rate on all loans made prior to the passage of the new act late in February, will be continued at the old rate of interest until the loan has been in force for one year, after which it will be automatically reduced to four and one-half per cent, the current rate of interest.

In other words, if a veteran made a loan on his policy in January of this year, interest at the old rate would continue until January of 1932, when the rate will drop to four and one-half per cent.

All old loans which become one year old at any time after February 27, 1931, will bear the new interest rate of four and one-half per cent along with the loans made under the provisions of the act enabling veterans to borrow fifty per cent of their Adjusted Service Certificates.

National Hospital Day

Tuesday, May 12th, is National Hospital Day—a day set apart for people to visit and become acquainted with what their hospitals are doing. It is not a day of solicitation or donation.

It has been pointed out that the chief difference between the sick bed of the home and that of the hospital is nursing—not equipment and apparatus and complicated mechanisms, but persons—nursing.

May 12th is the birthday anniversary of Florence Nightingale (1820-1910), Mother of Nursing. Florence Nightingale, an English lady, born at Florence, Italy, devoted her whole life to sick nursing and almost single handed made it the model institution which it is in English-speaking countries today.

It was in March, 1854, at the outbreak of the Crimean War that Florence Nightingale and her little band of fine women took charge of an English Barrack Hospital at Scutari. In ten days she was feeding 1,000 men from her diet kitchen; in three months she was feeding and clothing 10,000 men. Her splendid work stimulated narrow indifference to wholesome interest. Through public subscription, $250,000.00, called—The Nightingale Fund—was raised to establish the first school of nurses training at St. Thomas' Hospital, London.

Florence Nightingale defined nursing as "helping the patient to live." She recognized that sickness is not always necessarily a separate and distinct disease entity but commonly is a disturbance of function. She knew nothing of bacteria—no one did then—but she realized the virtue of absolute cleanliness, fresh air, pure water, and light.

Florence Nightingale—and then Clara Barton and Ethel Fenwick, Rebecca Strong, Margaret Huxley and many others, when you think of nursing you think of fine women—and without them how dismal our hospitals would be.

Visit your hospital Tuesday, May 12th, and contemplate its importance to you. Jameson Memorial Hospital will be open to visitors from 2 to 4 on Tuesday afternoon. A committee of the Aide Society will greet you.

JAMESON MEMORIAL HOSPITAL AIDE SOCIETY.

Evans, Mary—Costume Through-out the Ages—A useful history of costume, well illustrated.

Mitchell, Roy—The School Theater—

Family orchestra of New Middletown, O., furnished music on the program and for dancing.

FIND NEW CAVE (International News Service)

SAALFELD, Germany, May 9.—A newly discovered cave in the wonderful "Fairy Grottoes" near the old Thuringian city on the River Saale has been opened to inspection.

It contains stalactites and stalagmites of forms never before seen, among them stalactites more than two yards long and hardly thicker than a knitting needle.

These grottoes were for centuries mines where alum-bearing slate was mined.

Ready To Award Legion Medals

Boys In Eighth Grades To Be Recognized By Legion Shortly

OUTLINE OF BASIS FOR GIVING AWARDS

Annual award of medals by Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, American Legion to those boys of the eighth grade in the schools of the city and surrounding districts, who are outstanding, not only in scholarship, but also in character, courage, leadership and service to others, will be made in the near future and just prior to the close of the present school term, it was announced today.

This is an annual event on the part of Perry S. Gaston Post and those boys who are so fortunate as to have the qualifications that merit this award, one in each eighth grade, have every reason to be proud of the honor conferred on them by the American Legion in the making of the award.

The eighth grades in which the awards will be made by Perry S. Gaston Post are as follows:—George Washington Junior High School; Benjamin Franklin Junior High School and Mahoningtown Junior High School of this city.

County Schools:—New Wilmington, Shenango, Union, Volant and Wampum.

Parochial Schools:—St. Mary's, St. Joseph's, Sts. Philip and James all of this city and the Madonna Church School in Oakland.

The school authorities in each instance are now engaged in the process of elimination in accordance with the rules under which the awards are made and will have ready at an appointed time later for the visit of the Legion Committee, which committee will make the final selection from those selected by the school authorities and present the medal to the boy found to come nearest the ideal desired, in each of the several schools.

The committees to make the awards at the respective schools will be announced in the near future.

The basis of the awards is as follows:—The award is made on a basis of twenty percent for each of the following qualities:—

Honor:—Strength and stability; high standards of conduct; keen sense of what is right; adherence to truth and conscience and devotion to duty and practice of clean speech.
Courage:—Bravery in the face of opposition and danger, and grit to stand up for the right and do one's duty.

Scholarship:—Scholastic Attainment; evidence of industry and application in studies.
Leadership:—Ability to lead and to accomplish through group action.
Service:—Kindness, unselfishness, fellowship; protection of the weak, and promotion of the interests and welfare of associates without hope of personal award.

The actual method of award is for the committee of the post to select the boy who is to receive the award after consultation with the teachers and the members of the eighth grade class, who will vote separately on the five qualifications as set forth in the basis of the award.

Reports from the various schools indicate that the boys are intensely interested in the outcome of the award.

The Flower Parade

(This is another article of a series on gardens.)

By DR. KARL F. KELLERMAN
Bureau of Plant Industry
U. S. Department of Agriculture

Dahlia roots should be planted so that they will come into bloom after the hot, dry days of summer are over. Heat and dryness at maturity dwarf and harden the plants so that they do not produce fine blooms.

The gardener must himself determine the date of planting, horticulturists of the Bureau of Plant Industry advise. Location and soil are the important factors. A good plan in a new region is to make test plantings each week, beginning as soon as the danger of frost is past, and from the several plantings determine which date gives the best results at blooming time.

In dividing Dahlia roots, a part of the main stem should be left attached to each part. The dormant buds, which produce flowering plant come from this stem end. In planting, the roots should be laid in the ground, not set on end. A strong stake, placed near the stem end, gives the young plant early protection and support.

For fine, long-stemmed blossoms, let only one stem come up from each division and keep down the number of side shoots. By removing buds that start to mature in midsummer, the gardener will obtain better blossoms later in the cooler weather. Severe disbudding is not practiced when mass effect is desired.

In the spring keep the roots stored in a cool place, but free from frost. This prevents growth. They should be covered lightly with moist sand or moss so that they will not dry out. The roots may decay unless they have a little air.

Show Great Interest In Many Wonders Of Modern Fire System

As deeply interested as if they were engrossed in their school book fairy tales, 110 grade school children of Shenango Consolidated school of East New Castle were awed by the wonders of a modern fire department during a trip through central fire station Friday morning as guests of Fire Chief Lynn and his firemen.

The early graders trooped into central at 9:30 a. m. Friday accompanied by their teachers, Misses Prudence Sankey and Pauline McElhatten, and their bus driver, S. W. McCullough, who is also an instructor at Shenango Consolidated.

While willing firemen escorted the youngsters through the stationhouse they were receiving admiring glances from the men who were deeply impressed by the patience and interest of the children. Intricacies of a modern fire telegraph system as used by the New Castle fire department, the trucks at central, the firemen's quarters on the second floor and explanations by the firemen proved of interest to the children, who are studying about fire

Young People Have Most Enjoyable Time—Rev. Williams Speaker

ELLWOOD CITY, May 9.—The members of the Y. P. C. T. society of the First Church of God gathered at the home of Squire T. A. Gartley last night for a banquet long promised them. A large crowd was present and an interesting program had been prepared for the occasion.

Some weeks ago the young people of the First Church of God organized into two teams for the purpose of securing subscriptions for their church paper. It was decided upon the start that the losing side would banquet the winners.

Before the contest was closed two of the group surprised the rest by getting married last Sunday evening. Both events were consolidated into one when a kitchen shower following the colors of ivory and green was given in honor of the newlyweds.

Rev. Burt Williams, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the guest speaker, and gave a very entertaining informative address on the subject, "Danger Signals Along Life's Highway."

Harold Boyer, master of ceremonies, handled the situation very effectively by adding "bits and bits" of jovial brilliance between the numbers on the program.

Waiters and waitresses were four young people from the Y. P. C. T. society No. 2—Dorothea Woodling, Alice Miller, Raymond LeFever and Charles Stoughton. Their service was rendered well, making the banquet very enjoyable.

Mrs. John King of Center avenue planned and helped prepare the menu, and Loretta King, daughter of Mr. King, very effectively arranged the decorations in the colors of blue and white with candles burning during the banquet.

The committees in charge were: Banquet committee—Chairman, Edna Foreman; Mildred Slacum and Edna Rabberman.

While the guests were gathering Mrs. H. C. Reynolds favored those present with several popular numbers on the piano. As the ushers led the way to the banquet room.

At the close of the banquet a vote of thanks was given to all those contributing to make the banquet possible. Among those were J. I. Porter, who furnished the chairs, and Logan Hardware company which furnished the dishes.

At 11 Mrs. Reynolds took her place at the piano while the guests gathered into the social room again to shower the bride. Many beautiful and useful articles were received.

Among the gifts received, one was held until last, which revealed the secret marriage of Miss Linnea Engstrom to Herbert C. Reynolds. Congratulations were given to Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds. Upon investigation it was found that their marriage had taken place some months ago.

YOUR STANDARD OF LIVING

FOR all we know, some Mongolian landowner, living miserably in a smoky felt tent, may be the richest man in the world... For standards of living are not based merely on wealth. They are based rather on the way people use wealth. The reason why American standards are considered highest in the world is because the great majority of Americans have at their command all the things necessary to a civilized and cultured mode of living.

Any housewife in America, even of most moderate means, can draw upon the resources of all the world for her own private use!

You may study and enjoy outright at very small expense, music... drama... art in all its forms. You may review the smartest styles each day as they appear in the pages of newspapers. You may select household furnishings, modern conveniences, heat-units, refrigeration, food in luxurious and endless variety, cosmetics, dress-goods, automobiles, anything in fact that is commonly looked upon as part of the American scene... you may select these things leisurely and conveniently by merely studying the advertisements as they appear each day!

BALTIMORE, May 9.—The eagle of the racing world met at Pimlico on the hill for the $60,000 Preakness this afternoon and the winner will be a running horse.

Twenty Grand, Equipose, Mate, Surf Board—there's your race. The five others named through the entry box can run some, too. But not today. Not with 126 pounds in the boot over a mile and three-sixteenths with the four flyers named above.

The race, first of the great three-year-old classics, is popularly supposed to be strictly a Whitney family affair with young Albert Bostwick as a sort of skeleton at the feast. Mr. Bostwick owns the Running Mate.

With the track drying rapidly after Thursday night's rains, Twenty Grand was the overnight favorite at 6 to 5. Equipose was quoted at 3 to 1.

Shaute Pitches Dodgers To Win

Cleveland Castoff Pitches Third Victory For Brooklyn Against Phillies

WESLEY FERRELL POUNDED HARD

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 9.—The man nobody wanted put his feet under the dining room table today. Joe Shaute doesn't have to eat in the kitchen any more.

Despite the fact he sings tenor and wants to be an opera star, Shaute, ex-Cleveland, picked up in Florida this spring by Manager Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn in exchange for an old automobile tire and five gallons of gas, will probably be a permanent fixture with the Robins. He scored his third victory over the Philadelphia Nationals yesterday, 4 to 3, and if he never beats anybody but the Phillies Uncle Robbins will be satisfied with his Florida deal.

The Phillies gathered eight hits off Shaute before he gave way to Jack Quinn in the ninth and they got nine clouts in all against the Robins four. But the generosity of Stewart Bolen, the Philadelphia left hander, helped a lot. He gave eight bases on balls and threw in a wild pitch. Herman got a triple and a single and O'Doul also hit once along with Federick, who doubled with the bases filled.

The Boston Red Sox pulled Wesley Ferrell off his lofty perch, knocking him out of the box in the first inning with three runs, finally winning from Cleveland 8 to 4. A galaxy of Cleveland hurlers followed Ferrell didn't help much, the Sox garnering 13 hits in all.

Bill Akers, Tiger shortstop, doubled in the tenth and scored Owen with the run that won for Detroit over Washington, 3 to 2. Earl Whitfield was the winning pitcher but Lloyd Brown beat him in strike outs, 7 to 4.

The other teams did not play.

PONTIAC NINE TRIMS ELDERS

Bunching enough hits to score eight runs in the first two innings and scoring again in the seventh, the Pontiac nine captured its 16th straight victory of the season by topping the Elder A. C. team in a game played on the Elder field on Friday. The final score was 10-6.

J. Brinko was on the rubber for the winners and allowed but six scattered blows. Butler was touched for 11 hits by the bats of the Pontiacs. Whalen with three hits was the best sticker for the Pontiacs.

Rocco Loses To King Levinsky

Ellwood Fighter Puts Up Game Battle But Is Out-slugged By Chicago Boy

LAWLESS BEATS JACK THOMPSON

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 9.—The pugilistic score between King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, and Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, Pa., today stood one to one, following the King's victory last night in the semi-windup ten-round bout of Thompson-Lawless battle at the stadium.

Levinsky reversed the verdict Rocco scored against him at Pittsburgh two weeks ago by outslugging and outboxing the Pennsylvanian. The Ghetto youngsters had Emmett reeling from a right to the jaw in the second round, but failed to follow up. A similar situation occurred in the eighth. Rocco was willing to slug with the King at all times, however.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Although he beat a world's champion last night, Rocco, an Irishman hailing from Auburn, N. Y., today was still without a title.

Lawless punched his way to a decision over Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champ, before a crowd which paid $21,800 to get into the stadium. Thompson forced the New Yorker to come in a notch or two over the class limit, thus retaining his title on a technicality.

Ball Yard Banter

The one ball player who might be the cog necessary to put Cleveland's pennant machine into successful motion is Mr. Ralph Kress, red-headed, hard-hitting infielder.

The hitch is that Ralph isn't on the Indians' payroll. He's with the St. Louis Browns.

It's an open secret that Cleveland is seeking the services of Kress. The Indians would willingly trade a fine hitter for Kress and hitting is what St. Louis needs. Crowded out of the short position by Jim Levey, the rookie sensation, the Browns sent Ralph to the outfield to get the benefit of his swatting.

Lately Kress has been doing duty at first during Irving Burns' absence.

Immediately after the arrival of Levey, Kress was moved to third, but this did him nor the team no good. His arm was unaccustomed to the throw to first, a handicap that bothers most shortstops trying the further position. Then Ralph was sent to the garden.

A trade between the two clubs with Kress going to the Ohio team probably would help both teams.

Cleveland, of course, would benefit greatly. And, with the Indians ready to part with a player able to sock the apple at a clip a score or more above Kress' average, it would seem that the Browns would also improve with the suggested change.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

The first really useful city directory ever issued in this city, a directory, which was in keeping with the needs of the time and carried out many of the present day directory ideas, was that issued by the five original letter carriers of the New Castle Post Office in 1888.

It sold for the sum for three dollars a copy and was a local product from beginning to end, being compiled by the five original mail carriers in the city and published by Miller & Van Gorder, predecessors of Miller, Pyle and Graham, still one of the outstanding job printing concerns of the city.

The book was compiled by Daniel Mooney, Douglas McIlvenny, Luke P. Eagan, George R. Dufford and W. S. Rice, who carried the mail in this city at the time and were the original free delivery carriers of the city. Of this group the first two are now deceased.

A well preserved copy is now the property of Harry Clutch of 141 North street. The copy he owns was originally the property of the late John Blevins, who was city treasurer at the time it was issued.

The directory contains a business directory of the city, the boundaries of the five wards in the city at the time, a complete list of the streets and alleys, the city officials, the list of fire companies, a complete church directory, a lodge directory and numerous advertisements of those days.

Thirteen Protestant and one Catholic churches were listed. The fraternal organizations of the city were much more numerous.

City officials listed at the time were: Mayor, Robert McChesney; city treasurer, John Blevins; city controller, J. C. Stevenson; city solicitor, James A. Gardner; city clerk, John H. Miller; chief of police, Scott Rodgers; Director of Poor William B. Lutton; Warden of the City Home, George L. Leslie; Chief of the Fire Department, W. W. Cubison; select Council: First Ward, W. D. Wallace, Second Ward, William M. Brown, third ward, B. A. Wintemitz, fourth ward, James A. Gardner, fifth ward, Elias Long; Common Council: First ward, J. N. Falls and R. M. Allen Jr., second ward, Charles Kirk and W. C. Harbison, third ward, Daniel Bitner and J. N. Martin, fourth ward, John McKinley and W. S. Emery, fifth ward, Hiram Miller and S. A. Patterson.

Two daily and four weekly newspapers were published then according to the directory. There were ten hotels, nine livery stables, six horse-shoe shops, forty-eight grocery stores, sixteen general furnishing stores, three express companies, three undertakers, one telephone company, two telegraph companies, twenty physicians, three photographers, five news dealers, two banks, thirteen barbershops, twenty two attorneys, six bakers and four aldermen. In fact the directory was complete in every detail for the time it was published.

It contains the names of all the persons residing within the carrier limits, including the west side.

Monday:—Something about the city's postmasters.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Selling Wave Puts Stock Prices Down

By W. S. COUSINS

International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, May 9.—The road to higher prices for many of the active stocks in the week-end market was blocked by heavy profit taking and professional selling. A bulge in the favorites at the opening of the market carried prices a point or two beyond Friday's closing levels, but there was a grand rush to sell by the traders who had bought stocks at or near the low prices of the week.

This selling wave unsettled the market and carried many of the active shares a point or two below their peaks. Renewed weakness in Johns

Manville and J. I. Case, which dropped off about 4 points each in the first half-hour, also helped to un-settle the market.

Business and Industrial news at the week-end showed little changed from that of the previous week. A good gain in retail trade was reported but commodity prices have not rebounded from the bottom.

J. I. Case broke 6 1/2 points to 73 and Johns Manville was off 4 points, in continuation of the downward movements which have been in progress since Monday. Rumors of a downward revision in the dividend of both companies have accompanied these down turns in their stocks. Turns in the active market were disturbed a further decline in gasoline prices and Standard of New Jersey fell off a point to 37 1/2.

In the early rally, United States

Steel and American Can sold a point higher, while new gains of from 1 to 3 points were recorded in twenty or more of the best known Rails and Industrials. American Can, which started the day at 111, drifted off to 109 near the end of the first hour and U. S. Steel fell off from 115 to 112 1/2.

Woolworth sold above 72 and hung up a new high record for the year, in continuation of the advance which has been one of the outstanding events of the week. The balance of the mercantile group marched in company with their leader in the first period, but were depressed with the Industrials in the second hour selling wave. Mon-gomery Ward was well bought around 20 1/2 and Sears Roebuck at 55 to 56.

Radio Corporation led the activity in the low-priced specialties and was actively bought around 20 1/2.

Excellent progress in the development of Television is reported in current rumors in the financial district and announcements of unusual interest to the public are hinted at in discussions of the prospects of Radio stock.

The Public Utility stocks and the Rails settled back to the inactive

as the session advanced. Columbia Gas lost practically all of yesterday's gains and fell off to 30 1/2.

Consolidated Gas sold at 97, down

1 1/2 and most of the Power stocks lost ground. Trading quieted down as the second hour advanced, and moderate rallies were recorded in the Industrial favorites. The weekend Commodity markets were regular. Cotton sold a few points higher. Grain fractionally higher.

While Oil and Copper sagged. Further slight advances were recorded in Liberty Bonds and treasury issues.
